Rich Martin provided a report on the water line's operation. Daily average water usage for May was 4,935 gal.; for June, 6,416 gal.; and for July, 5728 gal. Rich flushed the system in June, which could account for its higher than average number.

The generator to the booster station was recently serviced; there were no issues with it. Rich flushed the hydrants this week. He's waiting for the disinfectant test results. Rich received several locate calls. He will be performing touch up paint on the hydrants shortly.

The District is required to attend one meeting of the Indiana Finance Authority as a provider of community water. The meetings have been cancelled thus far due to the pandemic.

Paul Stork from Wood, LLC gave an update on the groundwater remediation project, displaying site plans reflecting recent sampling results and data trends. The sixth stability monitoring event, involving testing at 12 locations, took place in June. The results show the plume to be stable. The seventh stability monitoring event will take place in September. It will be combined with the annual groundwater sampling event.

Once Wood completes the stability monitoring program, they will propose closure to IDEM of active remediation. Clean water upgradient from the treated areas should help to naturally attenuate impacted groundwater downgradient. Continued monitoring of a subset of groundwater wells is contemplated for the future.

One Board position (Doug Garvison) is up for re-election in 2021. Advertising of such will take place in the fall.

The Board meetings of the Conservancy District for the rest of 2020 are as follows: Nov. 12, commencing at 5:30 p.m. It will be a Zoom Meeting due to social distancing measures.
